Thank you for your "yes" to spreading the message of Divine Mercy to your homes, parishes, neighborhoods and communities.

WHAT A GREAT IDEA!

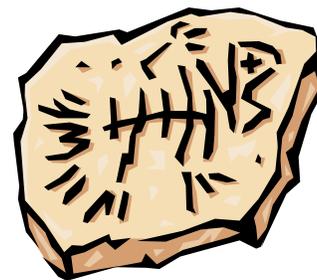

The CIA has been hanging around St. Luke's...No, not the Central Intelligence Agency, we are talking about Churches In Action! For the last 7 years CIA, made up of several churches from many denominations, have sponsored work weekends and donated clothing and food to St. Luke's Mission of Mercy. The work weekends are a joy to behold as an army of volunteers descends on the Mission to paint, clean, clear and improve. The work is hard but the volunteers are full of the joy of the Lord!

Perhaps your church, group or organization would like to sponsor a special project at St. Luke's. Whether you would like to form a work group like the CIA or help to organize the pantry or clothing donations, your time and talents can be put to work! St. Luke's receives no money from the government, and no one collects a paycheck, so every volunteer is a blessing.

Churches in Action (www.churchesinaction.com) has been so creative in service to St. Luke's and the entire community...even the world! They are sponsoring the purchase of Bibles for the Functional Literacy Ministry of Haiti this spring and hope to send 600 Bibles. If interested in helping, check out their website or call Howard at 863-8636 or Tom at 646-0368.

If your group, church, or company would like some ideas on how you can help the poor right here at St. Luke's, call us at 894-4476 today. We would be glad to fit the right project for you.

Reflections of a F.O.S.L. Friends Of St. Luke's!

By Sharon Drabek

The journey this past year has had many bumps and pot holes in the road for me, and I think I hit every one of them! Not to say this has been my first rough journey through life, but the bumps and potholes seem to have gotten bigger and I feel each one even harder. We all travel the rough road of life and along the way we pick up others who travel with us. While we travel together we become companions and friends. That is the journey I have traveled with the FOSL's. The group is the Friends of St. Luke's in name but I have come to find through this journey that it could also be the Family of St. Luke's.

As in all families, there are hard times and good times. Sad times and happy times. Times to be alone and times to come together. Even if we may not be there physically, our prayers support one another. When we do come together it is like you have never been gone; the love and warmth, support and understanding are still strong.

I will always be grateful for the friends who have become my family through St. Luke's and for their love and support through my rough ride in the past year. Your love made the way a little smoother. There will be more good times, and even some bad times, but I know that I have the love and support of my FOSL family to help me. When they need my support, I, too, will be there for them. That is what having friends and family is all about...FOSL.
